

Willaston Girl Guides 1975

This photo shows Willaston Girl Guides in an open-air service in 1975.

Ruth Hampshire remembers: We used to keep the tents and camping equipment underneath the stage in the Church Hall and had to crawl to retrieve them for the annual Guide Camp. I recall the Scout Hut on Elm Road being built. It had been fabricated at Collier's wood yard on Hooton Road (local Scouts assisted moving timbers) and transported on a flatbed trailer. Local Dads helped with the construction. It was really special when new with a lovely kitchen and facilities, although it got a bit chilly in the winter.'
